

TRANSACTION-RELATED INVESTMENT ADVISORY AGREEMENT

- ☒ New Contract
☐ Replaces the existing Contract

The Parties

Tramondo Investment Partners AG

Unter Altstadt 10

6302 Zug, Switzerland

(hereinafter referred to as the «Investment Advisor»)

and

Max Muster

Bahnhofstrasse 1

Adresse2

Zurich, Switzerland

(hereinafter referred to as the «Client»)

enter into the following Agreement regarding transaction-related Investment Advisory (hereinafter referred to as the «Agreement»):

1. Content of the Agreement

The Client hereby instructs the Investment Advisor to provide transaction-related investment advice (hereinafter refer to as the «Investment Advice») with respect to the assets held in the following custody account and the associated accounts.

Financial institution: Depotbank

Custody account number: Portfolionummer

Portfolio Currency: Currency

The mandate includes both the provision of transaction-related investment recommendations for individual transactions to the Client and the monitoring of investments made by the Client on the basis of the investment recommendations by the Investment Advisor. Investment recommendations made by the Investment Advisor are merely decision-making guidelines for the Client's independent investment decisions. The Investment Advisor shall not make any investment decisions for the client and shall not perform any asset management activities. He shall not provide portfolio-related investment advice taking account of the entire Client portfolio.

The decision as to whether a transaction is executed on the basis of an investment recommendation by the Investment Advisor is the sole responsibility of the Client. The Client acknowledges that the sole responsibility for the investment decisions made on the basis of the investment recommendations by the Investment Advisor and the resulting risks remain with the Client. The Investment Advisor does not make any decisions to buy, sell or hold financial instruments.

In the event that the Client instructs the Investment Advisor to initiate transactions in accordance with the Investment Advisor's recommendation, the Client shall grant the Investment Advisor the power of attorney and signature rights required for the execution of these specific transactions. In particular, in order to carry out his investment decisions the Client shall authorize the Investment Advisor to perform the following:

- Buying and selling (spot or forward) securities and book-entry securities (and intermediated securities, derivative instruments and combinations thereof), units in collective investment schemes, precious metals, commercial papers, currencies and money market investments, derivative financial instruments (options and futures) and other assets (particularly hedge funds and structured products);
- Converting and exercising or selling subscription rights, conversion rights and similar rights and
- Making fixed-term and fiduciary deposits in various currencies.

Investments in contracts for difference (CFDs) and securities lending are expressly prohibited. Any deviation from this policy or the inclusion of such activities shall require an explicit agreement to that effect in the form of a written addendum.

The Client shall be responsible for exercising any and all rights, such as voting rights and corporate actions (e.g. capital increases, dividends, takeover bids, etc.) in connection with the investments.

2. Compensation and Third-Party Benefits

2.1 Advisory Fee

The Investment Advisor shall receive the following compensation(s) from the Client for the advisory services provided within the scope of this Agreement:

Fee (plus VAT if applicable) minimum per year CHF 10'000 plus VAT.

The advisory fee shall be calculated based on gross value of total assets (custody account holdings and account credit balances) for which the Investment Advisor provides advice under this Agreement. The value of the Client's assets shall be calculated at the end of each month.

The advisory fee shall be based on the corresponding average of these values and due in each case retroactively at the end of each calendar quarter and debited by the Investment Advisor to the account designated by the Client. The advisory fee shall become due immediately on a pro rata temporis basis upon termination of this Agreement.

The Client authorizes the Investment Advisor to charge all the above-mentioned and agreed fees directly to the account indicated by the Client.

The aforementioned compensation does not include any fees charged by the custodian banks (including custody account fees, brokerage fees) as well as all other fees, payments and expenses charged by third parties and will be charged directly and separately to the Client.

2.2 Remuneration and reimbursements

The Investment Advisor refrains from accepting third-party services (e.g. retrocessions, reimbursements, portfolio commissions, etc.) with the exception of structuring fees.

Insofar as investments are made under this agreement in products (collective investment schemes and certificates) that are directly or indirectly established, managed, or controlled by the investment advisor, the client expressly acknowledges that, in such cases, the investment advisor shall, in addition to the remuneration agreed under this agreement, receive an appropriate management fee for the collective investment schemes (as specified in the fund prospectus) and certificates managed by him.

The client acknowledges that the use of such structured products may result in additional expenses for the Investment Advisor (preparation of the structure, brokerage for best pricing, control of the structuring and the term sheet, settlement, risk management, etc.).

Reimbursements of up to 2% may be paid to the Investment Advisor for these additional expenses in connection with a subscription/transaction, to which the Investment Advisor is in any case entitled. The client agrees that such reimbursements of expenses accrue to the Investment Advisor and waives disclosure in individual cases. The calculation basis shall in each case be the volume of the client's subscription/transaction.

The Investment Advisor warrants that, irrespective of whether or not third-party benefits are received, the asset management activities will not be influenced thereby and will always be performed in the best interests of the Client. The Investment Advisor undertakes to implement appropriate measures to ensure that potential conflicts of interest do not adversely affect the quality of the services provided. Furthermore, the Investment Advisor undertakes to optimize, to the extent possible and appropriate, the costs associated with the asset management in the Client's interest.

The Client confirms that he/she has been informed by the Investment Advisor regarding compensation in connection with services provided by third parties and expressly agrees to waive any entitlement thereto.

3. Duty to inform and the Investment Profile

The Investment Advisor shall obtain sufficient information which shall be appropriately documented, which shall allow him to recommend an investment appropriate to the Client's needs, knowledge and experience.

For this purpose, the Investment Advisor shall prepare a Client's Investment profile (Appendix «Investment Profile»). This includes in particular information regarding the client's experience and knowledge in investment advisory matters.

The Investment Advisor is not obliged to enquire about the Client's financial situation and investment objectives.

The investment profile shall form the basis of the Investment Advisor's decisions when making investment recommendation.

4. Appropriateness of the financial instruments

When providing transaction-related investment advice, the Investment Advisor shall take into account the Client's knowledge and experience, which he has determined with the Client in accordance with the separate investment profile. Before recommending certain financial instruments, the Investment Advisor shall check whether they are appropriate for the Client.

The Investment Adviser shall ascertain the Client's knowledge and experience with respect to each relevant investment category used in the provision of financial services. In doing so, the Adviser shall take into account the types of financial instruments relevant to the advisory services, as determined jointly with the Client pursuant to a separate risk profile.

The level of detail of the inquiries regarding the Client's knowledge and experience shall be commensurate with the complexity of the investment, the associated risk profile, and the applicable investment strategy.

The Client's lack of knowledge and experience shall be compensated for by the Investment Advisor who shall provide comprehensive information to the Client.

5. Delimitation of transaction-related investment advice

The investment advice provided by the Investment Advisor relates exclusively to individual transactions and investments, without taking into account the entire Client's portfolio for this purpose. In this regard, the Investment Advisor shall provide the Client with specific investment recommendations for the acquisition, holding or sale of financial instruments based on the investment types agreed with the Client. The Investment Advisor does not take into account the suitability and structure of the portfolio with regard to the investment objectives and the financial circumstances of the Client.

The Investment Advisor shall generally make its investment recommendations on a selective basis or at the request of the Client. The Investment Advisor is not obliged to make regular investment recommendations to the Client nor to make a certain number of such recommendations.

It is at the discretion of the Investment Advisor to make investment recommendations to the Client without a corresponding request. The prerequisite for this is that the provision of such investment recommendations is not excluded under the regulatory provisions in the country where the Client is domiciled or resident.

The Client decides on his own and at his own discretion whether to buy, hold or sell the investments required to achieve his investment objectives.

The Client acknowledges that investment recommendations by the Investment Advisor are based on the market data available at the time of the advice. Due to the influence of market developments or market volatilities, investment recommendations may rapidly no longer be up to date and are therefore only valid for a short period of time.

Investment decisions taken on the basis of the Investment Advisor's recommendations should therefore be executed by the Client immediately or within the respective time frame recommended by the Investment Advisor. If the Client is uncertain whether an investment recommendation is still up to date or valid, he contacts the Investment Advisor for confirmation of the recommendation given or asks him for a new investment recommendation.

6. Duty of clarification and information

The Client shall be informed by the Investment Advisor about the risks associated with transaction-related investment advice, taking into account the Client's business experience and professional knowledge. The Client confirms that he has been informed by the Investment Advisor about the brochure « Risks Involved in Trading Financial Instruments» published by the Swiss Bankers Association. The brochure can be viewed free of charge on the homepage of the Swiss Bankers Association (<https://www.swissbanking.ch/en/downloads>).

The Client acknowledges that investments involve risks and confirms that prior to any investment in a product or any transaction he has read and understood the relevant documents, such as the private placement, memorandum, prospectus, subscription form, term sheet, product description, marketing documents, etc.

The Client will only invest in products or transactions that are not subject to the Swiss Banking Act. Furthermore, the Client will only order and execute transactions with which he is familiar and of which he is fully aware of the risks involved.

The Investment Advisor is therefore not obliged to provide the Client with additional specific information on products or transactions, unless the Client expressly requests this or it is a question of providing the basic information sheet.

The Client acknowledges that the Investment Advisor's investment recommendations are based on information from trustworthy and reliable sources. However, the Investment Advisor does not assume any express or implied liability or guarantee for their accuracy and completeness.

The Investment Advisor shall inform the Client on all material changes in personnel, organization or shareholdings, provide these directly affect the Client and are not public known.

7. Basic Information Sheet for Retail Clients

The Investment Advisor shall provide Clients who are considered Retail Clients with a Basic Information Sheet on the recommended financial instrument prior to the execution of a transaction, i.e., with the submission of an investment recommendation and thus prior to the execution of a transaction, provided that such a sheet is to be prepared for the recommended financial instrument.

The Client may consent in a generally acceptable manner to the Basic Information Sheet being made available during the advisory service subject to the Client's consent only after the transaction has been executed. This consent may be revoked at any time.

- ☐ The Client consents to the Investment Advisor providing him/her with the Basic Information Sheet only after the transaction has been executed when providing advice in absentia.
- ☐ The Client wishes the Investment Advisor to provide him/her with the Basic Information Sheet before the transaction is executed, even if the advice is given in absentia.

No basic information sheet needs to be provided by the Investment Advisor if the service consists exclusively in the execution or transmission of the Client's orders within the meaning of Chapter 9 below unless a key information document already exists for the financial instrument.

For financial instruments such as securities in the form of shares, including share-like securities allowing for participation rights, e.g., participation or dividend rights certificates, as well as debt securities of a non-derivative nature, a Basic Information Sheet does not have to be prepared nor provided.

For foreign financial instruments, the documents under foreign law that are equivalent to the Basic Information Sheet shall be issued by the Investment Advisor.

8. Monitoring of Investments

The Investment Advisor shall only monitor investments in financial instruments for which he has given the Client a specific investment recommendation and which the Client has acquired on the basis of these recommendations.

The Investment Advisor shall monitor the investments exclusively with respect to significant and material changes and events that may have a significant and lasting effect on the price performance of the financial instruments concerned. If, in the opinion of the Investment Advisor, the circumstances or price performance of the financial instrument in question change in this respect, the Investment Advisor shall contact the Client within a reasonable period of time, if possible.

The Investment Advisor shall only monitor the investments made by the Client based on an investment recommendation of the Investment Advisor. Investments made by the Client without any consultation with the Investment Advisor or not based on the Advisor's recommendation are generally not monitored.

9. Specific investment instructions from the Client (Execution-only)

The Client may give specific investment instructions on his own initiative without having received a corresponding investment recommendation from the Investment Advisor. Such transactions, which are executed or transmitted by the Investment Advisor at the Client's request, are merely Execution-only transactions limited to the execution of the Client's order.

Specific investment instructions provided by the Client in terms of Execution-only do not form part of the advisory activity rendered by the Investment Advisor. Therefore, the Investment Advisor shall not take any actions regarding such transactions as he shall otherwise take with respect to financial instruments recommended by him. In connection with the Client's own investment decisions and the related circumstances, the Investment Advisor shall have no obligation to provide information or to issue a warning.

One-time Notification on Waiver of the Appropriateness Test

When merely executing or transmitting specific investment instructions, the Investment Advisor shall not carry out an appropriateness test. The Investment Advisor hereby expressly advises the Client that he has informed the Client of this fact on a one-time basis prior to providing this service and that it is no longer required to provide the Client with this information prior to each Execution-only transaction. The Client hereby confirms that he has been informed thereof and that he agrees thereto.

In connection with the acquisition of financial instruments upon the request of the Client for the portfolio held at the custodian bank, the Investment Advisor shall not be obliged to take any further action regarding these investment instruments. In particular, the Client agrees furthermore that the Investment Advisor is not obliged to monitor these investments.

10. Duties of loyalty

The Investment Advisor shall always carry out its activities to the best of his knowledge and protect the interests of the Client upon performing any Investment Advisory related activity.

For this purpose, the Investment Advisor has taken appropriate organizational measures to avoid conflicts of interest in the provision of its Investment Advisory services and to avoid any disadvantages for the Client due to such conflicts of interest.

If, despite the measures taken, conflicts of interest cannot be avoided or can only be avoided with disproportionate effort, the Investment Advisor shall disclose the conflicts of interest to the Client in an appropriate manner. In doing so, he shall in particular explain the circumstances out of which the conflict of interest arises, what risks may arise from it for the Client and what measures are taken to mitigate such risks.

The Investment Advisor has informed the Client, in particular, that the range of financial instruments considered in the selection process comprises either the Adviser's own instruments or a combination of the Adviser's own instruments and those of third parties. For the selection of specific securities, the Adviser has established a process based on industry-standard, objective criteria.

Any unavoidable conflicts of interest arising from the inclusion of the Adviser's own financial instruments have been duly disclosed.

The Investment Advisor shall keep confidential all privileged information which is made known to him upon performing any Investment Advisory related activity. This duty of confidentiality shall also apply after termination of this Agreement.

The duty to testify and to provide information to an authority or supervisory organization on the basis of applicable legal provisions as well as a possible delegation of the execution of the mandate to third parties shall remain reserved.

11. Documentation and Accountability

This Investment Advisory Agreement and the associated investment profile document the financial services agreed with the Client and the information gathered on the Client by Investment Advisor.

It also documents the fact that the Investment Advisor has informed the Client, prior to the provision of any Execution-only services, that no appropriateness test shall be carried out.

The Investment Advisor shall provide the Client with a copy of these documents upon request.

Upon the Client's request, but at least once a year, the Investment Advisor shall render account to the Client in a suitable manner of his activity as Investment Advisor. Within the scope of his duty, the Investment Advisor may also use the transaction reports and the custody account statements consolidated by the competent custodian bank(s).

If the Client expressly agrees, a longer period than one year may also be chosen.

The Investment Advisor's account reports include in particular the investment recommendations made, the orders received and executed and the costs associated with investment advice.

Any objections with regard to the reports must be addressed by the Client in writing to the Investment Advisor within 30 days of the delivery of the report, otherwise the report shall be deemed to have been approved.

12. Duties of care and liability

The Investment Advisor has appointed a deputy and informed the Client accordingly.

The Investment Advisor shall exercise the Investment Advisory mandate given to him with the due professional care required. The Investment Advisor shall only be liable for intentional and grossly negligent conduct. Furthermore, the Investment Advisor shall not be liable for the investment performance of the investments he recommends, or indirect damages and consequential losses.

The Investment Advisor shall not be liable for the performance of its investment recommendations. The Investment Advisor shall not be liable for any acts or omissions performed on the direct instructions of the Client or any of his authorized representatives vis-à-vis the Custodian Bank or authorized by such persons. The Investment Advisor shall not be liable for any loss arising from the Client's failure to comply with its obligations of disclosure and cooperation under this Agreement or in a manner contrary to the principle of good faith.

The Investment Advisor shall not be liable for any losses incurred if instructions cannot be given in good time in case the Client is unavailable or the Client does not promptly access the communications and proposals or react promptly to recommendations or communications from the Investment Advisor.

The Investment Advisor shall not carry out transactions in such situations without instructions.

The Investment Advisor assumes no liability for decisions to buy, hold or sell financial instruments which are not based on its investment advice or which are made contrary to its recommendations.

Furthermore, the Investment Advisor is not liable for the actions of the custodian bank and other third parties (e.g. stock exchanges, settlement agents, etc.).

The risk of transmissions including their confidentiality, in particular in the case of e-mail correspondence, lies exclusively with the Client.

13. Communication

The correspondence address(es) for communications to the Client shall be the address(es) provided to the Investment Advisor. Notifications to the Client shall be deemed to have been duly served if sent to the last correspondence address provided by the Client.

The Client shall always give instructions to the Investment Advisor verbal or in writing. If the Client issues instructions to the Investment Advisor not only in writing, but also by telephone or electronic means (e.g. e-mail), then the following rules shall apply:

- In the event that the Investment Adviser and the Client have telephone conversations about instructions, the Investment Adviser is obliged to carefully document the details of such a conversation with regard to instructions in the company's own (CRM) system. A summary of these instructions to be carried out must then be sent to the client by e-mail without delay. It should be noted that the execution of such instructions discussed during the phone may precede the sending of the above-mentioned summary. If the Client does not object immediately upon receipt of the summary by e-mail, it shall be assumed that the Client has tacitly approved the content of the summary and the instructions in particular.
- The Client hereby expressly authorizes the Investment Advisor to execute instructions transmitted electronically or by telephone. He acknowledges that the use of telephone, and other electronic means of communication (specifically e-mail) entail considerable risks and that it is not always possible to verify with certainty the identity of the instructing party. In particular, signatures can be forged, and orders can be transmitted late or incompletely. For this reason, the Investment Advisor reserves the right to not execute an order transmitted electronically in the event of doubt as to the instructing party's authority to disposal of the assets. The Investment Advisor shall be entitled to require written confirmation of an order at any time.
- The Client further acknowledges that the Internet is a public network, and that the protection of business secrets cannot be fully ensured.
- The Client is also aware that there may be delays in the processing and implementation of orders via electronic means of communication. Such orders shall only be deemed to have been accepted by the Investment Advisor once the latter has confirmed receipt in writing. The continuous retrieval of orders placed electronically cannot be guaranteed on an ongoing basis. The Investment Advisor therefore accepts no liability for electronic orders that are retrieved and/or processed too late.

Provided that the Investment Advisor observes the duties of care which are customary in the industry, the Investment Advisor shall be exempt from any and all liability vis-à-vis the Client. The Client shall bear any and all risks in connection with the transfer of electronically transmitted instructions.

The Client is also aware that the Investment Advisor is generally only available during normal office hours. The Investment Advisor accepts no responsibility for instructions submitted outside normal office hours and will not take any special measures to ensure the receipt and execution of such orders.

The Client authorizes the Investment Advisor to make use of the electronic services of the custodian bank and to use them for its Investment Advisory related activities as outlined in this Agreement. The Client is aware of the provisions applicable to the custodian bank in terms electronic services.

The Client grants the Investment Advisor the right to request any bank correspondence, account and custody account statements as well as additional statements for the accounts and custody accounts indicated in this Agreement.

The Investment Advisor is entitled, but not obliged, to record all telephone conversations with the Client. The Investment Advisor also reserves the right to retain or delete the recorded telephone conversations in accordance with the internal policies. The Client acknowledges that the Bank may use these recordings as evidence in the event of any disagreement.

14. Client Segmentation according to the FinSA and CISA

Pursuant to Art. 10 para. 3ter of the Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA), private clients for whom a financial intermediary pursuant to Art. 4 para. 3 letter a FinSA provides asset management services within the meaning of Art. 3 letter c clauses 3 and 4 FinSA as part of a long-term asset management relationship, unless they have declared that they do not wish to be considered as such, are deemed to be qualified investors within the meaning of CISA.

Pursuant to Art. 3 para. 3 CISA, professional clients pursuant to Art. 4 para. 3-5 or Art. 5 para. 1 and 4 FinSA are deemed to be qualified investors within the meaning of CISA.

If the client qualifies as a qualified investor, the investment advisor may also (a) invest in foreign collective investment schemes that are not authorized for distribution in Switzerland and (b) invest in Swiss collective investment schemes that are reserved for qualified investors.

The investment advisor hereby draws the client's attention to the possibility of declaring in writing that he does not wish to be considered a qualified investor, as a result of which investments under the Agreement can only be made in collective investment schemes that are also authorized for distribution to non-qualified investors in Switzerland. This may mean that certain investments are no longer available against the background of more stringent investor protection and therefore have an impact on the investment strategy and policy selected above.

Client classification in accordance with FinSA is carried out by means of a separate declaration by the client in accordance with the Annex "Client segmentation in accordance with FinSA and CISA".

15. Duration and termination of the Agreement

This Investment Advisory Agreement has been executed for an unlimited term and shall become effective by signing this Agreement. In particular, it shall also remain in force in the event of the Client's death, if he has been legally declared missing or in the event of the Client's legal incapacity or insolvency. Both the Client and the Investment Advisor are entitled to terminate this Agreement at any time by written notification to the other contracting party in accordance with the provisions of Art. 404 of the Swiss Code of Obligations (OR).

Should the Agreement be terminated by the Client, it shall end upon the Investment Advisor's receipt of the written notice. If the Investment Advisor terminates the Agreement, the termination shall become effective once notice has been received by the Client, but no later than seven working days after notice was sent by the Investment Advisor.

Termination of this Investment Advisory Agreement shall not have the effect of interrupting any ongoing business. The Client agrees, in the event of termination, to immediately assume responsibility for such transactions and to sign such agreements or other documents as may be necessary for the settlement of such transactions. The Investment Advisor shall inform the custodian bank of the termination within a reasonable period of time.

16. Amendments to the Agreement

Amendments to this Agreement can be made at any time and shall be made in writing to be valid, except for changes reflecting mandatory legal and regulatory requirements. Such changes may be implemented and communicated unilaterally by the Investment Advisor.

Without a written objection by the customer within a month, the changes are deemed to have been approved.

17. Severability clause

If individual provisions of this Agreement, in full or in part, are or become invalid, unenforceable or incomplete, the validity of the remaining provisions shall remain unaffected. The void, unenforceable or missing provisions shall be replaced by provisions which have been reasonably agreed by the Investment Advisor and the Client as appropriate if they had been aware of the ineffectiveness, unenforceability or omission of the corresponding provisions at the time of execution of this Agreement.

18. Applicable law and place of jurisdiction

The legal Client-Investment Advisor relationship shall be exclusively governed by the Swiss law. Where legal provisions allow, the place of execution and exclusive place of jurisdiction for all legal proceedings shall be the domicile of the Investment Advisor in Zug (likewise the place of debt collection for Clients without a place of residence or a domicile in Switzerland). However, the Investment Advisor reserves the right to take legal action against the Client before the competent court corresponding to his place of residence or registered domicile or before any other competent court, whereby the Swiss law shall continue to remain applicable.

19. Confirmation of the Client

By signing this Agreement, the Client confirms that the Investment Advisor has fully and accurately performed the above-mentioned enquires, clarifications and information actions (especially with regard to the Client's experience and knowledge of the Client), and that the Client has understood this information.

Furthermore, the Client confirms with his signature that he has negotiated and discussed the present Agreement, including the related General Terms and Conditions, with the Investment Advisor in detail, that he understands all the provisions, that this Agreement corresponds to his requirements and that the Client therefore expressly agrees with the legal consequences resulting therefrom. In the event of contradictions, the provisions of this Agreement shall take precedence over the GTCs.

Two copies of this Agreement were made and signed by the parties, whereby each party retains one copy.

1. Classification by the Company

Financial service providers shall assign the persons for whom they provide financial services to one of the following segments: a) retail clients; b) professional clients; c) institutional clients. Retail clients benefit from the highest level of protection provided by the regulations.

Pursuant to the available information, the Company classifies the client as follows:

- ☒ Retail client
- ☐ Professional client
- ☐ Institutional client

2. Information on the possibility to change client classification according to the FinSA

The classification by the Company governs the categorization of the client relationship, unless the client declares s/he wishes to be reclassified (opting-out/opting-in) in accordance with Art. 5 FinSA by means of the declaration as a separate appendix thereto.

Retail clients may declare that they wish to be treated as professional clients in accordance with Appendix 'Reclassification of a retail client and classification as a professional client (Opting-out)'.

Professional clients who are not classified as institutional clients, may declare that they wish to be treated as retail clients (Opting-in) or as institutional clients in accordance with Appendix 'Declaration of a Professional Client'. In addition to this, professional clients may expressly release the Company, from applying the code of conduct set out in Art. 8, 9, 15 und 16 FinSA.

Institutional clients may declare that they wish to be treated only as professional clients in accordance with Appendix 'Declaration of an institutional client'.

3. Information on the classification as qualified investor under the CISA

According to Art. 10 para. 3 CISA, professional clients are automatically considered as qualified investors, even though they have declared that they wish to be considered as retail clients.

Pursuant to Art. 10 para. 3ter CISA, retail clients are automatically considered as qualified investors if they have executed a permanent asset management or investment advisory agreement with a prudentially supervised financial intermediary. However, they may declare in writing that they do not wish to be treated as qualified investors. As a consequence, they cannot acquire collective investment schemes whose offer is exclusively aimed at qualified investors.

Reclassification of a retail client and classification as a professional client (Opting-out)

Client: Max Muster

1. Implications of reclassification as a professional client

According to Art. 5 para. 1 FinSA, retail clients may declare that they wish to be treated as professional clients. As a professional client, the level of protection decreases in the following fields:

- Reduced application of the code of conduct set forth in Art. 7 ff. FinSA and Art. 6 ff FinSO.
- No duty to provide a prospectus for a public offer for securities (Art. 36 FinSA).
- No duty to provide a Key Information Document (KID) on recommended financial instruments (Art. 8 para. 3 and Art. 58 FinSA).

In addition to this, professional clients may expressly release the Company from applying the following rules of conduct (Art. 20 para. 2 FinSA):

- Duty to provide information (Art. 8 and 9 FinSA, Art. 6 bis 15 FinSO): The Company informs its clients about its organisation and supervisory status, and the risks and cost associated with financial instruments, possible economic ties with third parties (in particular, retrocessions) and the market offer taken into account when selecting financial instruments.
- Documentations and Rendering of Account (Art. 15 and 16 FinSA, Art. 18 and 19 FinSO): The Company shall document the financial services agreed, the information collected about the client, and any advice to clients against availing of the service. A copy of this documentation must be provided to the client upon request and an account of the portfolio under management must also be provided.

In the case of professional clients, the Company may assume that these clients have the required level of knowledge and experience and can financially bear the investment risks associated with the financial service.

2. Declaration of the retail Client

- ☒ The Client declares that s/he wishes to be treated as a professional client who faithfully declares that s/he meets at least one of the following criteria to be deemed as a high-net worth individual according to Art. 5 para. 1 and 2 FinSA.
- on the basis of training, education and professional experience or on the basis of comparable experience in the financial sector, the Client possesses the necessary knowledge to understand the risks associated with the investments and has assets of at least CHF 500'000;
 - The Client has at her/his disposal of at least CHF 2 million.
- ☒ The Client hereby requests to be treated by the Company as a professional client. The Client acknowledges and agrees that a lower level of protection is provided by the reclassification as a professional client.

3. Waiver of the application of certain rules of conduct

According to Art. 20 para. 2 FinSA, professional clients may expressly release financial service providers from applying the code of conduct set out in Articles 8, 9, 15 and 16 FinSA.

- ☒ The Client declares that, as a professional client, s/he releases the Company from applying the code of conduct set out in Articles 8 and 9 FinSA (Duty to provide Information) and Articles 15 and 16 FinSA (Documentation and rendering of account)
- ☐ The Client, despite being classified as a professional client, declares not to waive the application of the code of conduct set out in Articles 8, 9, 15 and 16 FinSA.

The Client confirms that s/he has sufficient knowledge, experience and expertise to make investment decisions and to adequately assess the risks associated therewith. The Client confirms that s/he has been informed by the Company about the consequences of the reclassification. In addition, the Client acknowledges that the Company is obliged to become active and adjust the Client's classification if it believes that the Client no longer meets the above conditions.

General Terms and Conditions (GTC) of Tramondo Investment Partners AG

1. Scope

These General Terms and Conditions («GTC») apply to all services provided by Tramondo Investment Partners AG («Tramondo») to the Client («Client») (in particular as Investment Advisor), unless special agreements (e.g. in the asset management agreement) exist.

2. Service principles

Tramondo carries out all its work according to professional standards. This includes that all legal provisions are complied with. The Client himself is responsible for analyzing his individual tax situation and making appropriate arrangements. Tramondo assumes no responsibility for tax consequences arising from the provision of services. In particular, investment advice or asset management does not include tax or legal advice. It is the Client's responsibility to make use of appropriate advisory services and to clarify any (tax) legal issues. Furthermore, Tramondo does not make any binding promise of minimum returns in asset matters.

3. Lack of capacity to act

Tramondo is not liable for damages resulting from the lack of capacity to act on the part of the Client, his authorized representatives or third parties, unless this lack of capacity to act has been communicated to Tramondo in writing and Tramondo has breached its obligation to exercise due care and diligence.

4. Notifications | Change of personal circumstances

Tramondo relies on always having up-to-date Client information. The Client is therefore obliged to inform Tramondo immediately in writing of any changes, in particular changes to his person, his authorized representatives, his control holders as well as his beneficial owners of the assets (name, effective residence address, address for service, nationality, tax status, change in financial situation, etc.). In addition, the Client must also immediately notify Tramondo of any changes in the «Risk Profile» appendix.

If the Client violates this obligation, he shall bear responsibility for any costs incurred in the investigations as well as any further damage incurred by Tramondo.

Furthermore, the Client undertakes to provide Tramondo, without being requested to do or upon request, with the information that Tramondo needs to fulfil its contractual or legal duties (in particular with regard to money laundering).

5. Contact and lack of communication

The Client shall ensure that contact with Tramondo is not lost. If contact is interrupted, Tramondo may pass on the costs of address searches, as well as the special handling and monitoring of dormant assets, to the Client.

6. Communication in general

Notices to the Client shall be deemed delivered if sent to the last correspondence address provided by the Client.

The correspondence address(es) used for notifications to the Client shall be the address provided to Tramondo.

In the absence of any objection on the part of the client, Tramondo's communications shall be deemed approved within one month.

If required by the Client, Tramondo is also authorized to retain mails and any kind of documentations corresponding to the Client. The Client is responsible to authorize in an appropriate communication Tramondo to withheld mails and documentations. All liabilities and risks out of retaining mails and other documentation remains with the Client.

In principle, Tramondo communicates with the Client in accordance with the means selected by the Client. In the absence of a corresponding agreement, Tramondo reserves the right to choose the appropriate form of communication at its own discretion. The Client is also aware that Tramondo can only be contacted during normal office hours. Tramondo accepts no responsibility for orders received outside normal office hours and does not take any special measures to ensure the receipt and execution of such orders.

The Client authorizes Tramondo to make use of the electronic services of the custodian bank and to use them for its asset management activities underlying this agreement. The Client is aware of the relevant provisions by the corresponding custodian banks in terms of electronic services.

The Client grants Tramondo the right to receive all bank correspondence, account and custody account statements as well as additional statements for the accounts and custody accounts listed in this agreement.

Tramondo is further authorized, within the scope of its activity as an Investment Advisor, to sign on behalf of the Client all statements of account, receipts, notification of discharge and correctness or similar.

Tramondo has the right, but not the obligation, to record all telephone conversations with the Client. Tramondo further reserves the right to retain or delete the recorded telephone conversations in accordance with its internal policies. The Client acknowledges that Tramondo may use these recordings as evidence in the event of a disagreement.

The Client shall always issue instructions to Tramondo in writing. If the Client issues instructions to Tramondo not only in writing, but also by telephone, fax or electronically (e.g. e-mail), then the following rules shall apply:

7. Use of modern communication tools by Tramondo in particular

The Client hereby expressly authorizes Tramondo to carry out instructions issued electronically or by telephone or fax. He acknowledges that the use of telephone, fax and other electronic means of communication (specifically e-mail) entail significant risks and that it is not always possible to verify with certainty the identity of the instructing party. In particular, signatures can be forged, and orders can be transmitted late or in an incomplete form. For this reason, Tramondo reserves the right to not carry out instructions issued electronically or by fax in cases of doubt regarding the power of disposal of the instructing party. Tramondo is entitled to require written confirmation of an instruction at any time.

The Client also acknowledges that the internet is a public network and that protection of professional secrecy cannot be fully ensured.

The Client is also aware that there may be time delays in the processing and implementation of orders via electronic means of communication. Such orders shall only be deemed to have been accepted by Tramondo once the latter has confirmed receipt in writing. The continuous retrieval of electronically placed orders cannot be guaranteed on an ongoing basis. Tramondo therefore accepts no liability for electronic orders that are retrieved and/or processed too late.

Within the scope of its services, Tramondo will use means of communication such as e-mail/internet/e-banking/telephone/fax/messenger services (hereinafter referred to as «modern means of communication»), which involve risks with regard to confidentiality and security.

The Client expressly agrees to this and authorizes Tramondo for this purpose in particular, but not only, to transmit Client data unencrypted via these means, to communicate unencrypted with the Client, to make enquiries of Client data at partner companies and to process orders electronically. Should the Client generally or in individual cases not agree to the transmission of information and documents via modern communication tools, Tramondo must be informed of this in writing. Otherwise Tramondo assumes that the Client agrees to the use of these means of communication.

Tramondo has taken extensive measures to limit the above risks as far as possible through controls and security precautions. In the event of any direct, indirect or consequential damage attributable to incomplete or incorrect transmission or falsification of identity when using modern means of communication, the Client waives the right to claim damages and undertakes to indemnify Tramondo for all damages. All risks in connection with the transmission of electronically transmitted orders are thus borne by the Client.

If damage occurs by chance or force majeure without the Client or Tramondo having violated his/her due diligence, each party shall bear its own damage.

8. Execution of orders

The Client places orders conclusively in accordance with the form agreed between him and Tramondo. If the Client places orders in a form other than the agreed form, the transmission and execution of the corresponding orders shall be entirely at the Client's risk.

Tramondo is entitled, but not obliged, to obtain (re-)confirmations from the Client or to carry out other checks regarding the orders before executing the Client's orders, if necessary. Shall Tramondo exercise this right, the order will only be executed after submission of the (returned) confirmation.

In all other respects, the liability of Tramondo for the non-execution, defective or delayed execution of orders shall be governed by Clause 20.

9. Clients Complaints

All objections or complaints concerning the execution or non-execution of orders of any kind, concerning account or custody account or asset statements or the valuation of credit balances or other communications from Tramondo must be made immediately after receipt of the relevant notification, in any case within one month of delivery, otherwise they shall be deemed to have been approved by the Client. Complaints not made in good time by the Client may result in the Client breaching the duty to mitigate loss incumbent upon him and, as a consequence, he may no longer be able to claim for damages which he may have incurred as a result of the defectiveness of the documents complained about.

10. Content and scope of the order

Tramondo shall define the content and scope of the specific order placed by the Client in the respective agreement.

11. Investment strategy and investment policy

The investment strategy each correspond to a separate risk and return combination. Therefore, only one investment strategy and one reference currency can be selected.

The Client is aware and accepts that Tramondo assumes no responsibility for the performance and also for the market risk of the investment instruments contained and managed in the Client's portfolio.

Furthermore, the Client is aware that the past performance of e.g. an investment instrument or an investment strategy is not an indication of its future performance.

12. Fiduciary duties

In the performance of its asset management or investment advisory activities, Tramondo always safeguards the interests of the Client to the best of its knowledge and belief.

To this effect, Tramondo has taken appropriate organizational measures to avoid conflicts of interest in the performance of its asset management or investment advisory activities and to exclude disadvantages for the Client due to such conflicts of interest.

If, despite the measures taken, conflicts of interest cannot be avoided or can only be avoided with disproportionate effort, Tramondo shall disclose the conflicts of interest to the Client in an appropriate manner. In particular, Tramondo shall explain the circumstances from which the conflict of interest arises, what risks may arise from it for the Client and what measures are taken to mitigate said risks.

Tramondo has specifically informed the client that the range of financial instruments taken into account in the selection process consists either of its own instruments or of a combination of its own instruments and those of third parties. For the concrete selection of securities, it has defined a process based on industry-standard, objective criteria. Unavoidable conflicts of interest arising from the inclusion of its own financial instruments have been disclosed.

Tramondo shall keep confidential all privileged information which is brought to its knowledge in the course of its asset management or investment advisory activities. This duty of confidentiality shall also apply after the termination of this contract.

The duty to testify and to provide information to an authority or supervisory organization on the basis of corresponding legal provisions as well as a possible delegation of the execution of the mandate to third parties (cf. Clause 16 below) remain reserved.

13. Fees and costs

Tramondo determines the fees charged to the Client in the respective asset management agreement.

Any third-party fees or taxes, e.g. sales taxes, which are incurred in the execution of the order shall be invoiced to the Client additionally or separately. Invoices are to be paid within 30 days without any deductions.

14. Discretion

Within the framework of the contractual relationship, Tramondo is legally obliged to treat all client data confidentially.

Accordingly, Tramondo undertakes not to disclose any information to third parties without the Client's consent - except for the exceptions listed in these GTC. All data required for the assessment of the risk and for the verification or execution of orders may be passed on to involved (custodian) banks and/or other auxiliary persons without further consent of the Client. Tramondo is entitled to destroy the files it has created after ten years of completion of the order without further consent from the Client.

15. Cooperation and communication with custodian banks in particular

Tramondo uses the services of suitable custodian banks within the scope of the order from the Client, whereby Tramondo is entitled to disclose information about the Client as well as all data relating to the execution of the order to the custodian banks. Similarly, the Client acknowledges and agrees that the custodian banks may provide Tramondo with information about the Client and in connection with the Order, in particular by electronic means, again subject to the risks referred to in Clause 7. The Client acknowledges the agreements, if any, between Tramondo and the respective custodian banks regarding electronic communication and may, upon written request to Tramondo, at any time request to inspect the corresponding agreements.

Tramondo has delegated the loss threshold reporting according to Art. 62 DelVO (Delegated Regulation (EU) 2017/565 of the Commission of 25.04.29) to the corresponding custodian bank. In case of a reportable event according to Art. 62 DelVO, the Client will therefore not be informed by Tramondo but by the custodian bank.

16. Outsourcing of business areas

The Client acknowledges and expressly agrees that Tramondo may outsource individual business areas (e.g. information technology, compliance) to qualified third parties and that data may be shared with these third parties to the extent necessary for the execution of the order. The Client acknowledges that in the case of outsourcing, his data may also be transferred to a delegation counterparty. The delegation counterparty is in any case subject to the same confidentiality obligations as Tramondo.

The Client releases Tramondo from the obligation of business secrecy towards the delegation recipient as well as towards the account and custodian bank and agrees to the transfer of his data to the latter.

17. Compliance with laws | combating money laundering

The Client is obliged to comply with the national and international legal and regulatory provisions, in particular those relating to combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism, the provisions of criminal law and the provisions of tax law applicable to him.

If the Client fails to comply with these provisions, he shall bear the costs for clarifications and expenses incurred by Tramondo. The Client acknowledges that circumstances may arise upon initiating or during the course of the business relationship which oblige Tramondo by law or due to the terms and conditions set forth in the agreement carry out additional clarifications regarding the business relationship or a transaction and to report the business relationship to a competent authority or to terminate it. In addition, Tramondo may be legally or contractually obliged to inform the custodian banks of its clarifications, which may lead to assets freeze by the custodian bank.

The Client is obliged to provide Tramondo, upon request, with all information that Tramondo requires in order to comply with its legal obligations to clarify or report. This includes, for example, information about the origin of the assets and the circumstances and background of a transaction initiated by the Client beyond the scope of the asset management (e.g. withdrawal of assets).

The Client further acknowledges that, in accordance with the applicable Swiss provisions on money laundering, Tramondo has either a duty to report or a right to report to the Swiss authorities in the event of a suspicion that the assets involved in the business relationship are connected with a criminal offence or originate from a crime or are at the disposal of a criminal organisation. In these cases, is further entitled not to comply with the instructions received from the Client and in particular not to execute orders that have been placed. In addition, Tramondo may inform the custodian bank of any suspicious activity report made by the Company.

All damages resulting from orders and instructions not executed or executed late shall be borne by the Client, provided that Tramondo has acted within the framework of the respective applicable Swiss provisions regarding money laundering.

18. Data protection

Tramondo collects and processes the Client's data in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Swiss Data Protection Act («DPA») as well as other relevant data protection provisions and ensures compliance therewith, to the extent applicable.

19. Ombudsstelle

Tramondo is affiliated with the Financial Ombudsman Service Switzerland (FINOS).

Finanzombudsstelle Schweiz (FINOS)
Talstrasse 20, 8001 Zürich
Tel.: +41 44 552 08 00
e-Mail: info@finos.ch
Web: www.finos.ch

In the event of disputes between Tramondo and the client, the client is free to initiate mediation proceedings with the ombudsman's office.

20. Liability | Limitation of Liability

The liability of Tramondo is generally limited, regardless of the legal ground, to losses or claims for damages caused by intentional or grossly negligent conduct.

The Client furthermore acknowledges that, regardless of the legal basis, any liability for damages for loss of profit, loss of data, goodwill or consequential damages, indirect damages, special damages or other damages incurred on the occasion of the fulfilment of the agreement, irrespective of whether such damages were foreseeable or not, is fully excluded.

21. Applicable law | Place of jurisdiction

All legal relationships of the Client with Tramondo are exclusively subject to substantive Swiss law to the exclusion of the provisions of international private law and other conflict of laws. The place of performance, place of debt collection for clients domiciled abroad and exclusive place of jurisdiction for all types of proceedings is Zug. However, Tramondo also has the right to file a lawsuit against the Client at the competent court of his domicile or any other competent court.

22. Amendments to the General Terms and Conditions

Tramondo reserves the right to amend the General Terms and Conditions at any time. These will be notified to the Client by e-mail, on the website of Tramondo or by other suitable means and will be deemed to have been approved without objection within one month.

This document replaces all previous versions of the General Terms and Conditions.
